

Jnanpith Awardee from Chhattisgarh

Renowned Hindi poet and storyteller
Vinod Kumar Shukla, hailing from Chhattisgarh, has been awarded the 2024
Jnanpith Award, India's highest literary honour.

Mr. Vinod Kumar Shukla

Hindi poet and storyteller

Vinod Kumar Shukla was announced as the recipient of the 58th Jnanpith Award on 15 February 2025, for the award year 2024. Born on 1 January 1937 in Rajnandgaon, Chhattisgarh, Shukla has had a remarkable literary journey that spans poetry, novels, and short stories, redefining Hindi literature with his fresh perspectives and unique narrative style. His works, deeply rooted in the ethos of Indian villages and small towns, explore themes of simplicity, human relationships, and the profound beauty hidden in everyday life.

Vinod Kumar Shukla, an eminent Hindi poet and storyteller, is celebrated for his profound yet minimalist writing style that blends simplicity with deep philosophical insights. His writings often capture the nuances of rural life, ordinary people, and their emotions in a way that resonates universally. His major novels include Naukar Ki Kameez (The Servant's Shirt), Deewar Mein Ek Khidki Rehti Thi (A Window Lived in a Wall), and Khilega To Dekhenge (We Will See When It Blooms), each marked by sensitivity and poetic rhythm. His short story collections, such as Sab Kuch Hona Bacha Rahega and Per Par Kamra, reveal his ability to capture fleeting emotions and existential concerns. In addition, his poetry collections like Shaily Aur Tumhari Kavita and Lagbhag Jai Hind showcase his lyrical brilliance and understated irony, making him a poet of rare depth and originality.

The Jnanpith Award is a recognition of Shukla's invaluable contribution to Indian literature and his ability to transform the mundane into the extraordinary through words. His works have received widespread appreciation for challenging conventional narratives while maintaining artistic honesty and philosophical depth. Beyond fiction and poetry, Shukla has also written essays and literary critiques, further enriching Hindi literature. He has been honored with several other awards, including the Sahitya Akademi Award and Vyas Samman, for his unmatched contribution to modern storytelling. By honoring Vinod Kumar Shukla, the Jnanpith Award not only celebrates his artistic brilliance but also reaffirms the significance of Hindi literature in shaping the cultural and intellectual fabric of India.